Economic Development in Ghana and Malaysia

A Comparative Analysis

Samuel K. Andoh, Bernice J. deGannes Scott and Grace Ofori-Abebrese

Series: Routledge Explorations in Development Studies

Economic Development in Ghana and Malaysia investigates why two countries that appeared to be at more or less the same stage of economic development at one point in time have diverged so substantially. It examines the pre-colonial and colonial economies of both countries, and the economic policies pursued after independence. In doing so, it aims to identify policies which might have contributed to Malaysia's development, and those which might have slowed Ghana's. This detailed comparative analysis will be useful to students and researchers of development economics as well as public policymakers in developing countries.
